Helping Hand. To the Editors of the Dispatch: In your issue of August 25th is an article by "Young Men of West End," which shows that there is a class in this city, as helping hand to provide suitable places for them to spend their evenings. They need to feel that others take an interest in their be bold to declare my conviction that his is welfare. That class is comprised of the mechanics and working class who are too poor to supply themselves with the comforts and enjoyments of the more fortunate in this world's goods. Let us look at both sides of the picture. In the homes of the well-to-do we find everything that is repaired. pleasing to the senses-books, pictures, bright light and warm fires and pleasant company. Upon the other hand, the poor themselves from the meetings was enforced mechanic comes to his home-the young for the first time. man, particularly-and finds nothing attractive about it. How many are thereby led into temptation! Many cities have seen Pleasant rooms are provided in locations most convenient to the residences of this They are furnished plainly but class. neatly. In them can be found plenty of good reading matter in the shape of books and pamphlets and weekly and monthly journals (excluding of course those of low character), tables, and writing materials; also, checkers and chess and their respective boards. There can always be found plenty of bright light, and in winter a good warm fire. A nice cocoa matting on the floor and bright chromos on the walls lend an air of respectability to the place. In summer evenings a cooler is kept filled with ice-water, and in winter terests of the city and State. A man of this for a penny or two can be got a hot cup of coffee and a roll. These rooms are kept open at night only, some member being appointed to voluntarily take charge of the room for a month. During the winter they sometimes have pleasant and instructive lectures, sometimes pleasant sociables, to which come their wives, and childeen, and friends, where they have music vocal and instrumental, and readings. For all this the members are taxed a small sum per month-in some places twenty-five cents, in others fifty cents.

In some cities whole buildings are occupied, having library and reading-room, lecture-room, bath-rooms, and checker- and chess-room, but that is rather extensive for us. I was once connected with an enterprise of this kind in one of our southern cities. We raised a library of over eleven hundred volumes and subscriptions to over twenty of the best journals, and six sets of checkers and chess, by private contribution. The carpenters among the members built the tables and book-cases, the painters and paper-hangers did their share, so all were interested. The amount of good done was simply incalculable. Every night the room was filled, and by the very young men who would otherwise have been loungers around the street-corners and saloons, open to all temptations. Here is a good work that can be done in Richmond. Let a room be opened at West End and one on Church Hill. With energetic men to start the ball, it will roll of itself, and this coming winter the fruits of it will surely be seen. Young men and others who labor hard need rest and recreation. If they are allowed to find it in the streets, they will more likely find the improper. If proper recreations are offered them, together with many of the inducements that are thrown around the improper. many hundred will gladly accept them, and be the much better citizens by so doing. Since writing the above I learn, through one of the energetic members of the Young Men's Christian Association, that a move is a suitable building, where will be found plenty of good reading matter, innocent games of different kinds, pleasant cominducements that are thrown around the cept them, and be much better citizens by so doing. I learn that the Young Men's Christian Association have a move on foot to purchase a building in the central portion of the city, where they intend to have a library and reading-room, indocent games of different kinds, plain refreshments, pleasant company, and in fact every inducement will be thrown out to keep the young men off the streets and out of bad company "God speed them" in their good work and I hope all good citizens will give them a "helping hand" by word and deed. This, however, will be more likely to benefit the young men of other classesthose living down town. My idea is the e-tablishment of comfortable and inexpensive rooms in the localities near the resi-

George M. Dutcher, of Wilmington, Del., who represented himself to the people of Manchester last year to be a temperance lecturer, has turned out, as seen from the New York papers, to be a "big fraud." He exacted a liberal purse from the citizens of this place when lecturing here.

Religious services are expected to be held in the different churches in the city to-night. The Baptist church has no regular pastor. It is thought that the Greenback faction of this district has given out the idea of nominating candidates for the Legislature. Yesterday morning a horse belonging to colored farmer of Chesterfield stumbled over a rock in the road near Granite and broke his leg. The negro who was riding the animal at the time was thrown upon his face and slightly bruised.

The two Innatics who have been confined in the Chesterfield jail for several weeks are yet there, and will remain until arrangements can be made for their removal to an
